

The Ultimate Protection Against Corrosion & Contamination

A growing concern has been placed on food safety and the prevention of corrosion and contamination. Robroy Stainless understands these risks and how they can impact product quality and result in serious recalls and costly fines. That is why we have developed the first electrical raceway system specifically designed to address and minimize both corrosion and contamination. An added benefit is that Robroy Stainless also works seamlessly with ROCKET RACK® pre-fabricated sanitary support systems.

Robroy has been the industry leader in protecting electrical infrastructure in the harshest environments for over 100 years. Our reputation as the marquee brand in raceway products has been built through our willingness to design and develop complete solutions and by working closely with our customers to meet their specific needs.

RobroyStainless.com

A Division of Robroy Raceway